

Girlfriends

Girlfriends are your loyal and devoted allies

Who will expeditiously serve as your Private I's

They will do for you whatever they can

Like a trustworthy Mafia right-hand man

True girlfriends are there through thick or thin

They'll come to your rescue whenever you say when

They will peep through windows like a secret agent or CIA spy

If you have any unanswered questions about your partner or guy

Your girls will sit up with you all night eating ice cream

While you share your concerns, aspirations, and dreams

They will offer their gentle shoulder for you to cry

When your unworthy significant other abruptly says, "Good-bye"

Girlfriends willingly share your good times and bad

Some are like sisters that you've never had

They will go to the mall and walk, store to store

Until you find that outfit, or your feet cannot step anymore

Your girls will dance and party with you at the club all night

Then drive home giggling until the early morning sunlight

(Copyright © 2021. All poems are copyrighted by Renee M. White. All rights reserved.)

They will hold your hair back in the bathroom stall
When you've consumed way too much alcohol

Girlfriends are your priceless and invaluable assets
That could never be discounted at any of the best outlets

They'll even testify in court and plead for mercy
To defend your innocence during any legal emergency

You know that they are just one call away
To share your exciting news, or your dismay

Their love, encouragement, and support are a must
Because they are someone who you place your highest trust